Women of Asphalt Spotlight

WEST VIRGINIA BRANCH

MEET JEANNE ROCKWELL

Jeanne works in Quality Control for Southern West Virginia Asphalt and is a champion of getting women involved in the construction and asphalt industry. She has worked for SWVA for 18 years in July and has been in the business for 25 years. When asked how she got involved, Jeanne said, "It probably started out on a dirt mound when I was a kid, building roads and playing with big CAT equipment with my 2 brothers. I had drafting in high school and have an associate degree in architecture technology." Jeanne said, "I am proud to be a female in the construction business. My advice to women is don't give up, learn all you can in whatever construction job you may be in, whether it be the equipment, or testing, any aspects.

There will be roadblocks, mentor your coworkers and other people that may be interested in the construction industry."

Thank you, Jeanne, for representing Women of Asphalt WV so well in the field!
